REPRESENTATION

ICHCA is the ONLY non-governmental organisation representing the cargo handling sector in consultation with United Nations bodies such as the International Maritime Organisation, International Labour Organisation and UNECE UN Economic Commission for Europe. These bodies set standards and create regulations that directly affect you, your people, your customers, and your supply chain. As a member you get to know what is being proposed in advance and can contribute to the debate.

We are an essential voice – your voice – for our industry.

STANDARDS

ICHCA continues to develop new and update existing industry guidance. Our library of over 90 world class bespoke technical publications provides go-to, pragmatic, health and safety knowledge and advice for cargo operations. All available to our members. We have a best-in-field panel of technical authors covering different cargoes, regions, disciplines, and regulatory frameworks; truly international. We also work closely with sister organisations on key topical projects, drawing down their wide-ranging expertise, developing joined-up guidance and extending our industry's pro-active influence on health and safety.

INSIGHT

Our technical advice service taps into a global group of over 80 experts in their respective fields and geographic locations, an unparalleled resource. If you have a question to raise about safety in cargo handling, you can come to us. If an answer exists, find it through us. Of course, we also have the usual membership services, newsletters, and regular updates. We post safety alerts, sharing lessons learned; we organise topical events on a range of subjects relevant to our members. If you like to get your insight in bite-sized chunks, follow us on Twitter, LinkedIn, and Facebook.

You are welcome to join our task-and-finish working groups and participate on topics that fire your interest. You can have your say in what the ICHCA community addresses next.

OUR MEMBERS
