Self-testing for Covid-19 with lateral flow tests is a pivotal part of managing the risk of infection. NILB respectfully requests delegates to complete lateral flow tests before attending this event. NILB will not request proof of a negative result, but we invite delegates, privately, to engage seriously with the self-testing process. Do this to ensure the safety and wellbeing of your fellow delegates..

The seminar

London is the Nautical Institute's largest branch with over 600 Members and a long history of organising successful conferences on industry leading topics. As part of the Nautical Institute's 50th Anniversary celebrations and in line with the theme of "Maritime Leadership In a Changing World", the London Branch has organised a one-day conference on board HQS Wellington on the River Thames.

Technological and regulatory changes continue to provide challenges for the maritime industry and some longstanding challenges are still of concern. What are these challenges and how will they affect the future of the industry? In adapting to these changes who will provide that leadership and what type of leadership is needed? The conference will explore four principal areas which continue or are likely to play an important role in the future of the maritime world: Environment, Autonomous Ships, Criminalisation and The Role of the Seafarer. Speakers from OneOcean, MCA, UKP&I/TT Club and Steamship Mutual will give presentations aimed at increasing delegates' understanding of the issues involved. Delegates will be invited to participate by way of informal Question & Answer sessions aimed at allowing differing points of view to be exchanged.

Why you should attend

Listen and learn from a mix of speakers; engage in substantive discussion forums and network with an excellent cross-sections of mariners, senior managers, stakeholders, surveyors, insurers and other professionals. This seminar is aimed at analysing problems from the mariners' point of view and will benefit those involved in the shipping industry, including; mariners, owners, charterers, insurers (H&M, cargo and P&I) underwriters, surveyors, claims handlers, maritime lawyers and consultants.

The venue

The historic ship HQS Wellington is the headquarters of The Honourable Company of Master Mariners. It is the City of London's only floating Livery Hall. HQS Wellington is located close to Temple tube station (on the District/Circle lines).
